

This is CURIOSITY

Children are born with a natural curiosity, and Hong Kong Academy's Early Childhood programme provides all children with the perfect environment for developing their spirit of inquiry.

As an Early Childhood teacher, it's my job to fuel this curiosity. In HKA's Early Childhood programme, all children spend their time developing the skills that help them ask, see, think, feel and reflect. I help them ask questions as they play, explore, create and play again. Often I respond to their questions with other questions and then look on with intrigue as the cogs start turning. And when an answer is found or a conclusion is drawn, more questions often arise, and then the whole process starts all over again.

That is the wonderful nature of curiosity — it feeds itself and is the basis of learning not only in Early Childhood, but for life.

Be curious with us at HKA!
